

Dr. Tiffiney Taylor is the new Director/Organizer for RocACTS, Rochester Alliance of Communities Transforming Society, Incorporated. RocACTS is a 501(c)3 not-for-profit, multi-ethnic, interfaith community, organized to:

- transform our community for the common good by breaking down barriers that divide us,
- train community members as leaders,
- address the issues that impact the quality of life in our neighborhoods,
- promote a faith-centered model of community organizing.

Dr. Taylor is uniquely equipped to support RocACTS' vision and mission.

A recent graduate of Carolina University, she earned her doctorate in leadership and organizational management. The title of her dissertation was "An Examination of Servant Leadership in the African American Church". She previously earned her Masters of Divinity at Northeastern Seminary with a major in Theology and Social Justice. She also holds a Master's degree from Roberts Wesleyan College in the area of Congregational and Community Practice.

As an undergraduate, she attended St John Fisher College majoring in Gerontology with a minor in Religious Studies and Sociology. Dr. Taylor is an ordained minister as well as and inspired social worker. She has worked for Highland Family Medicine, Elderone, as well as Flower City Chaplain Corp. and God's Vision Ministries. She also worked as a pediatric social worker at the University of Rochester.

Dr. Taylor is the author of two books that reflect her personal life and academic experiences. She has also been an invited guest speaker and lecturer in the Rochester community. She will be contacting many of our community members soon to continue the work of implementing social and racial justice in our everyday lives.
